PRICE TWOPENCE.

ANGLING.

[Secretaries of societies and fishermen of whatever taste or peculiarity, are respectfully requested to forward contributions concerning the prospects of their localities, and any interesting information relative to this delightful branch of sport. Contributions on Rowing and Swimming receive every attention at our hands.]

THE THAMES.—I have heard of no trout having been taken at Henley during the months of April, May, or June. I believe a few were taken at Marlow, and also at Pangbourne. There have been several small jack taken in the reach, both above and below bridge. The largest, weighing 7lb, was caught by spinning tackle at Hambleden Weir. There have also been some very fair-sized roach taken from the bank or towing-path towards Marsh Lock, but they are very ill-conditioned at y^e best, having only fed on the bottom. They bite freely when spinning, especially in eddies, and close to the weeds. Our Cockney fishermen, the old Lea anglers, who go down by the Sunday excursion, and who are the best roach anglers out, are the boys who do the work, with their single hair lines, tapered quill floats, and square baskets. The gudgeon fishing fraternity are as yet few and far between. I reckon the late cold easterly winds have in some measure checked their spinning, but I took a dozen or so a fortnight or so ago. The barbel do not bite freely yet. I saw a man hook a fine fellow not long ago while going through Marsh Lock fishing in the mill pool, but like the gudgeons, they are backward. I generally find the gudgeons come to the rake about the middle of July or August, and Magpie Eyot and Cullum Court are the spots to find them. They run very large—12 inches say—and are very bold, and will take a fly or even over that weight. The perch are very careful of a minnow as yet, preferring a bright worm and gut float tackle. They bite well at a minnow with a paternoster about the middle of August until February, and they are at present in very fine order.—GREVILLE F. (Barnes).

The Trout.—Anglers have been numerous on the Trent during the past month. Barbel have taken the worm and greaves better than usual, and several fair captures both up and down the river have been made. Perch and eels have not been at all backward in accepting the worm, especially the latter, which have been landed in decent numbers in almost every place where angling is held in esteem. The water is in fine condition for the pike, and several gentlemen have met with an average share of success. Pike are not likely to go far from the water, and distant from the side; anglers, therefore, have to contend with extra difficulties in gaining access to them. The best bait at the present time is the live bait, which they seem to take in preference to any other. Several fair samples of dace have been taken out of the rapids with the tail end of the lobworm, which is one of their most favourite baits in the summer months. These fish bite extremely sharp, and it requires the greatest quickness and attention on the part of the angler to hook them. In a general way, dace inhabit the same swims as the barbel, but it is not quite to angle so deep for them as for that fish. It may probably interest our readers to know that a number have been seen picking in the shallow parts of the river, thus showing that the efforts of the Trent Fishery Association to preserve the fish have not been attended with unsuccessful results. A Nottingham gentleman hooked one at Shadlow, while fishing for barbel either on Monday or Tuesday, and it afforded him some capital sport for an hour and half, when he unhooked it.

The EDIN.—During the present month the river has been on indifferent for angling, and, with the exception of a few expert hands, the worm, very poor sport, has been had. There were two or three small floods in the early part of the month, which brought up a large quantity of grilse and salmon, particularly the former, which augur well for next season's supply of salmon. The sea-trout have been very plentiful this season, and a good many were caught with the fly during June. The whiting (Salmo salar) are now coming in great numbers, and, with weather and water in trim, we expect some rare sport during the month of August. Since the passing of the Salmon Fishery Act of 1861, whereby the nets were enlarged, they have become more abundant each year; they are very merry fish when hooked, bounding out of the water to the height of two or three feet half a dozen times in succession, and fail for liberty to the very last. They take the worm very well, and are able to grab a good hand in any suitable part of the river. They are able to kill from ten to twenty pounds a day, and the destruction of the river rests with their fishing associations, one at Carlisle, and the other at Penrith, both doing their best with the means at their disposal, which, like most voluntary associations, is sadly short of the requirements of the case, and it would do well for the river if the owners and occupiers of the fisheries were as keen in trying to improve and protect the breed of

THE TWEED.—Not fishing on the Tweed has been tolerably steady. The latter part of week strong easterly winds sent in an increased number of fish, but the excessively severe thunderstorm of the previous week, although general over the wide district from the Tyne to the

THE FISH AND FURRY FISHERY DISTRICT.—The new Fishery Act, among the fortunate streams, has been well received by the extent. The Spey last year received considerable accessions of water, rapidly, and experienced an increased supply of grilse in consequence. Other rivers to the eastward are reported to be fishing better since those inundations occurred. The chance for the Ness is not yet over; the salmonry rather generally sets in about the beginning of August in that river, which always to the great advantage of the "Queen of Scottish rivers."—S.

HAVING COME INTO OPERATION.—The new laws relating to fishing have come into operation, it is now illegal to fish in the waters of those rivers without a license, and the penalties are somewhat heavy; if with a rod or line, double the amount of license duty, and £5; if with any other instrument or device double the amount of license duty, and £20. The license for rod and line is £1, but only one moiety will be charged for this year. The open season is for salmon, with all instruments, except rod and line, from March 1, to Sept. 1, inclusive; with rod and line from March 15 to November 1, inclusive. For trout, from February 1, to November 1, inclusive. The district consists of so much of the Rivers Usk and Ebbw, and their tributaries, as are within the counties of Brecon and Monmouth, and so much of the estuary of the Severn as lies between Collister Pill on the east, and Ff-y-ton-y-gwyn on the west, all in the county of Monmouth.

The Lugg.—This is a very uncertain river for trout angling with the artificial fly. The trout are very capricious, sometimes rising well, but most frequently the most accomplished angler fails to "stir 'em up" even with the most tempting cast of flies. At the present time it is absolutely wasting "the precious moments as they fly," to attempt to move a trout of mark on the Lugg. Some days ago a very experienced and persevering fisherman was on the Lugg for the greater part of the day, to nine o'clock p.m., on the Merton water, near Herford, without stirring a fish, and during the whole time he was at the water's side he only saw one large trout rise. He used a cast of flies which ought to have lured some of the patriarchs of the stream, but Lugg trout are not only wary, but are a well-fed, lazy fish.

MARSHAL VAILLANT'S DOG.—Marshall Vaillyan has a wonderful dog, called Brusca. Le Monde tells us that Brusca was found on the banks of the Rhine, near Ingelheim. His master, an Austrian officer, had been killed by that and the poor dog was found howling by the side of his dead body. Some French soldiers touched by the sight of him, and moved by evident grief, carried him off and gave him to Marshal Vaillyant. The Marshal accepted the gift, and brought him with him to Paris. At first Brusca having been educated in Germany, did not understand French; but as he had been induced to speak it, he walked off and turned his tail to the speaker with an air of utter disgust. However, he has now acquired the language, and is said to be ten years old. He is a large dog, and is the most perfect master of all their Teutonic sounds which would not prevent his reaching the Marshals. Whenever he goes to Court, Brusca goes likewise whether the Emperor or the Empress is in his way or not. He has been known to leap over the imperial boats to secure a snug seat near the Marshal. He attends Cabinet Councils with the utmost regularity. This white Brusca was born in Ingelheim, where the dog is a favorite amusement, and sheared and combed as usual when he considers that the Council has sat long enough; but on this special occasion his impatience led to a loud whine, which attracted the notice of the Emperor, who straight up at the Emperor and scratched his trousers. His Majesty, annoyed at being interrupted, pushed the dog away and said, "Eat it before, on chien Betre?" said the Marshall. "Yes, Sire," said the Minister, "you shall see." The Minister rose, took a newspaper off the table, and going to the far end of the Council Chamber, said he must take a walk with the Emperor. During this paper in his mouth, tried to get away from him, Brusca would not let go, and so tied it safely by His Majesty. Front of the beautiful Cabinet Councils. He kept it until he had madded his master, then he sprang up and barked at him till his master

SOUTHAMPTON RACES.—The Duke of Newcastle, Sir Bruce Chichester and Mr. R. Ten Broek, have accepted the stewardship of this meeting for next year. In consequence of Winchester taking one of their days, the committee have decided to hold their meeting on Thursday and Friday in the same week.

HAMPTON ATTUM RACES.—The prominent feature of the racing at Hampton, N. Y., for Sept. 19 and 20, will shortly be tested. The stewards are G. Payne, C. F. Carr, and A. Heathcote, Esq., and the track is the course, M. Langdon.
A new "Tattersalls" has been put in, Park-lane and Piccadilly. It will supply a want largely felt, in the increased sale and purchase of horses, and will be conducted upon the usual terms of such establishments; and if the names of proprietors and manager are guarantees for success, we have no doubt of its efficiency to supply a want largely felt by all classes of horse owners. Competitiveness is the backbone of public accommodation.

THE PAST AND THE FUTURE.

When the grandfather of the present Duke of Richmond formed a racetrack on Harroway, upwards of sixty years ago, it was little thought the Goodwood turf rénovations would be so attractive as they are now. But it was the late Lord George Bentinck who did so much for the gatherings in the ducal park of Sussex; and he had got racing to such perfection there that as early as in 1830 the present excellent stand was obliged to be erected. A series of improvements have been effected to ensure the comfort and convenience of all classes, from the highest patron to the British Throne downwards. Since we visited the course last season a new stand for jockeys and trainers has been erected, with weighing rooms, printing office, &c., on the basement. The Grand Stand itself has been newly painted and re-decorated; and many important little attentions paid to the lawn, the saddling paddock, and the running ground. In some places, where the herbage was thick, the latter afforded some excellent going; but on the far side of the course the ground was exceedingly hard, and though we had some beautiful rains during the week they were not heavy enough to render the course elastic in part where it was most needed. The frequency of the showers did not materially affect the attendance, and the beautiful lawn at intervals was graced by the "noblest and fairest of the land." The Prince of Wales and his suite, and the Duke of Edinburgh, attended by Major-General the Hon. B. Yule, rode across over Mr. Osborne on Monday afternoon in the Royal Yacht Alberta, with the Prince of Wales flag floating at the main; and on their return their Royal Highnesses proceeded directly to Goodwood, specially to inspect the hospital of Richfield for the race week, and to "assist" in the turf festivities. A distinguished party, of course, were invited to meet the Royal personages. The Duke of Edinburgh, however, was the guest of the Prince and Princess Edward of Saxe-Wilmar, at Molecombe; and several large parties of fashionables were formed for the week in the neighbourhood. The Earl and Countess of Stamford were at Bognor; and the Duke of Beaufort, accompanied by a numerous circle, occupied his old quarters at that favourite watering place, as well as the adjacent residence of Littlehampton, Worthing, Emsworth, and Havant, were more than a week in a house, was to be had there, and as much as £150 had been raised for the hire of one for each week only! Brighton was extensively patronised by the holders of the five guineas tickets; which the London, Brighton, and South Coast Company so liberally issued for the fortnight over which the Goodwood, Brighton, and Lewes meetings extend. The arrival of horses commenced as early as Friday, and by Wednesday somewhere about two hundred of the competitors were stabled in the Goodwood district, upwards of eighty of which had arrived from Newmarket by a special train. The new saddling paddock, which adjoined the Grand Stand enclosure, and extended for more than one hundred yards in the direction of Trundle-hill, was a great boon. No stools, dogs, or betting-lists were allowed in the enclosures; but Messrs. Valentine and Wright, the great bookmakers, were allotted the same piece of ground that occupied last year, and the booths at the lower end, to which the principal list-bookers were confined, Messrs. V. and W. subletting them to responsible parties only. This was a special under-standing at the desire of the Duke of Richmond, who caused the trees, gateposts, and other prominent places to be surrounded with warnings against pickpockets, card-sharpers, and wolves.

Nine events were down on Tuesday's card, but the Craven Stakes resulted in a walk over by Brahma, much to the surprise of the general public, who considered the race a gift for Ostregore, whom Mr. Padwick has recently purchased from Mr. Boville. The other items produced sixty-one runners. Confederate, despite his round joints, upsets a great pot for the all-age Sweepstakes, and was claimed by Mr. Mackenzie for £200, and the horse may be more sound than he looks. Seven open entries for the Lavan Stakes, in which nothing had been the semblance of a chance, went to the Slave, Lord Lyon, who is certainly filling out, and getting more substance. Colonel Pearson was again "pestered" to part with her, but he would not, though £8,000 was offered for the filly. Lady Hester ran exceedingly game, and beat all the others, as we said she would. Her stable companion, Ischia, had no difficulty in winning the Gratiwicks Stakes, as Robin Hood could not stay, and Westwick showed a deal of time, but we fancy the latter is a good horse and will improve with time. Ischia has grown into a beautiful level mare, and is far superior now to what she was on the Oaks day, when she ran third to Tormenter, who it appears, has gone to France this week. Only twenty-four were weighed for the Stewards' Cup, the principal absentees being the strapping Mrs. Stratford, and the magnificient C. G., both of whom had been public "pets" to an enormous extent, but they have not run to run as the old excuse "when dry transactions are absent" "the stable cannot get sufficient money on." To add to this annoyance the French bred Sultan, whose forelegs still appeared "sickly," had a wretched start, and there were several "cannons" in the race—Gardenvise for one being nearly prostrated. The French bred Sultan, who is really as good as he looks, won in a canter for Baron Niviere, and singularly enough the late confederate of that nobleman, Count La Grange, was third with Plutus, Sir Joseph Hawley (who thought he had a real good thing, and kept it quiet, too) splitting the two with Xi, who was meeting the winner at 11lbs for the year. Klarinska was more fit, and a better staying, too, than either Zambezi, Archimedes, Lozenge, or Arkansaw, for the Stewards' Stakes; therefore it did not surprise us to see her win with such ridiculous ease; but the recent operation does not appear to have altered the excitability and sagacity of Lord Stamford's horse. Alouma was made the favourite for the Hanover Stakes, and she won by a neck; but Lord Glasgow will have it that his Young Melbourne colt ought to have pulled through, and has requested Johnny Osborne to send in his jacket and cap, which the latter has been too glad to do.

We had two Walkers over on Wednesday; but the other eight races enticed fifty-two runners. War and Iachis were unopposed for their engagements; and Auguste turned out to be better than was credited, for he easily defeated Langham on his merits in the Drawing Room Stakes, though the performance is far from being good, as the Frenchman was in receipt of only £1000, and was riding only once, and had a clever win from the Baron's jockey, who, in view of the Goldsmith Plate on the Craven, gave Mr. Chaplin the chance of a Welsh stick very early in the meeting, landing a good stroke. Markyay failed even to run into a place for the Finsdon Stakes, though backed to heaps of money, and Provisor only just managed to beat Blamarc, the second favourite, by a neck in the last stride or two. Ten contested the Goodwood Stakes, which were won by an outsider, Rama, whom none of the tipsters ever dreamt of, as he was reported lame at Nottingham. Lord Westmorsland, to whom the colt belongs, could not think it a very good thing, as he had only £300 on, having previously entrusted Potomas with a lot of money, and then shifted it on to Black Prince. Rama won just as he liked, for Forster made the pace so hot that the favourite was dead beaten a mile from home, and the Special could not stay after all, whilst there was not enough of the French mare for stride to tell. The remaining events of the afternoon we did not stay to witness, but we heard that Lord Ronald had scratched his pair for the Cup. Marquis of course, was sent back for the Derby. We never fancied him for that race, as next to Achievement, we believed the Palmer to be the best public two-year-old of them.

As yet we have received no programme of either the Brighton or the Lewes meetings, therefore cannot possibly allude to any of the handicap events to be decided there next week. There are, however, some two-year-old racing and a three-year-old steeple chase we can advise upon. At the Queen of Racing Places, forty-five juveniles are nominated for the railway Stakes (three-quarters of a mile), and unless the Chaplin-Machell confederacy pull out the Hermite or Knight of the Garde (the latter of whom is also well 3lbs), Fripounier is sure to gain, again, for Pirate Chief cannot interfere with another race, and Dalloway's cheetah. Provisor will be reserved for another race, and Aldiesbury is the only one left. Another will put off the Fourth Biennial, and in the absence of the Hermite, vote for the latter in the Eighth Club Biennial; whilst Brimstone may turn out the best of a bad lot nominated for the Seventh Biennial. Counting again upon the absence of the Hermite, we give Lupus the preference for the Priory Stakes at Lewes.

OUR GOODWOOD SUCCESSES.

We have much pleasure in drawing attention to the results of our vaccinations for the first three days' racing in Sussex during the present week:

REARING GOLD AND SILVER PHEASANTS.

The following admirable article on this subject by a high practical authority is from the Poultry Chronicle:

There are certainly no varieties of our domestic poultry so beautifully replendent in the feather as those above named, and as the writer has kept them many years with success a few hints, may, at least to some

be very considerable, even in the interval of a few minutes), I would not advise anyone to place such valuable pheasants in an exposed situation till thus provided with a proper security. As these birds are always valued for their beauty, as well as the comparative ease with which they may be reared, it will add considerably to the perfection of their plumage to place a sufficiency of perches for their accommodation; not spare and thin ones, but make a deal of space about an inch and a half square, the sharp edges being taken off with a fine file. This will prevent their tails rubbing, and what is intended for attraction's sake, add not a little to their value.

In selecting the brood stock, a cock with four or even five hens will be a fair proportion; but always bear in mind the eggs laid to a young cock (of either the gold or silver pheasants) the spring following the year in which he was hatched will be unprofitable until he has assumed the adult plumage, and this takes place when about a twelvemonth old. I always prefer a cock bird of the second year, and hens too (simply because they then lay far more eggs), but the eggs of pullets of the preceding year are productive with a male, as above stated. The young hens will lay ten or twelve eggs in a season, but the older birds when carefully managed will lay twice as many, or forty-eight eggs in the same period. These eggs require a longer incubation than the common fowls, as they generally hatch on the twenty-fourth day, though I have repeatedly known them omitted in the shell a day longer; therefore, if desirous of rearing a chicken or two with them (to insure greater familiarity), the fowl's eggs must be deposited accordingly, as nothing tends so sadly to unsettle a hen at hatching time as some portion of her chicks coming a day or so previously to the remainder, and often leads to the most obstinate desertion of her nest.

I would suggest that all eggs should be at once removed from both golden and silver pheasants directly they are laid; the latter being especially inclined to peck and eat them the moment they are produced. The best remedy I know is to procure half a dozen artificial eggs, and let them lie about always, and then the birds, seeing them constantly, regard them less. This will be found quite as useful in respect to fowls that eat their eggs, and is the most effective plan I myself am

HOLLINGWORTH LAKE.

Saturday last was fixed for the grand swimming gala promoted by the celebrated Professor Poulton, the worthy host of the Griffin Inn, Upper Medlock-street, Hulme, Manchester; but, in consequence of the unfavourable state of the weather it was postponed till this day (Sunday). There was a band of music, an efficient staff of officials, and ample arrangements for carrying out the games successfully, but the high wind and pouring rain prevented the affair. Notwithstanding the losses sustained by the amphibious "Professor," he liberally standing the bill, to be compensated for in an off-hand handicap, distance 200 yards, for which twenty competitors enrolled their names. These were classed in four lots, with the following result:—Heat 1: J. Blackstock, 6 seconds start, first; T. Shaw, 20, and Wrigglesworth, 20, distanced. Won easily. Heat 2: H. G. Dunlop, 3, first; Bink, 18; Meakin, scratch. Won easily. Heat 3: E. Schofield, 4, first; Shaw, 18; and Elliott, 20. Won easily. For heat four no competitors appeared. For the deciding heat 5 to 4 was laid agst Dunlop, 2 to 1 agst Schofield, and 5 to 1 agst Blackstock. Schofield soon showed in front, but before reaching the buoy pulled up, when Dunlop took the lead, hotly pursued by Blackstock. In this way the men rounded the buoy half Dunlop leading, when Schofield most deliberately swam behind him and several times fouled Dunlop. The latter, however, forged ahead and won by 15 yards; Blackstock being second; and Schofield disqualifed. The water was fearfully lumpy and hard-going. The Professor acted as referee, and Mr. George Haslam, of Manchester, fulfilled the duties of starter.

SWIMMING MATCH IN THE SERPENTINE.

"beginners" be acceptable. They may with proper care be raised perfectly tame, but have always a decided tendency to be a good deal alarmed at the sudden appearance of a strange dog, cat, or even an individual; for which reason only I think it quite advisable they should be pinioned if allowed an outlet of any kind, lest they may be tempted to avoid capture by surrounding buildings; for, unlike common pheasants, they are only tempted to return with great difficulty, and the moment they get from their accustomed range seem as wild and uncontrollable as birds reared at large in state of nature. As this can be easily managed without the slightest detriment to the appearance of the bird, it may save a great deal of trouble and vexation to keep this rule invariably. I admit I have known many kept for years in walled yards without loss or even accident; but this is decidedly the exception to the general rule. Let it be, too, always be kept in mind, in handling pheasants or feathered game of any kind, never to lay hold of them by a wing, for an injury will necessarily befall the bird with both hands tightly round the body over the wings. This is the only safe way of capture, and then they may be taken without any injury at all, either to their plumage or them-selves.

I would myself advise avisaries for their accommodation covered in from the rain, as nothing tends so much to keep them in perfect feather; and then it will not be by any means difficult to guard them against another great annoyance—viz., cats prowling about during the night and at twilight. From this cause numbers of pheasants of either kind have been destroyed; not from an actual hurt received from the cat herself, but from the birds, in their affright and consternation, flying furiously against the roof or the wire-work, and literally scalping themselves. All this may be prevented by letting a "tar-bar" be fixed closely every night, to cover the whole of the open work of the aviary. It has this double service: it prevents sudden rain wetting the sanded floor, and causes the birds (producing rheumatism in the inmates), and by being opaque, prevents the shadow of cats passing being seen; for invariably, if they see cats at night the birds will fly and thus seriously damage themselves. I found simple curtains for this purpose of no use whatever, being semi-transparent, so that the greatest danger is to be feared, for on these occasions the cats come very long distances, attracted no doubt by sound, and when they have once found your birds will be sure to pay them almost nightly visits, as they appear to follow them with greater avidity than any other appear to birds. As certainly of trifling expense at the outset is far preferable to birds. As certainly of trifling expense at the outset is far preferable to birds.

These kinds of pheasants are raised in confinement much more easily than the common pheasant of our preserves, the young growing with incredible rapidity if well and frequently fed on curds, boiled eggs, good old cheese—all chopped fine—and mixed with bruised hemp and canary seed. The maggot produced in flesh from the blue dyed that annoys our larders so sadly in summer time) will tend very greatly to their rapid improvement. I am perfectly aware that artificial eggs are preferable, but when these are not available in your locality this will be found an excellent substitute, and should be given daily till the pouls are somewhat considerably grown. Wheat, hemp, and barley are the best food for the old stock. It is somewhat singular that neither variety will agree satisfactorily with the common pheasant; a woodpecker keeping well with them, the hybrids produced between both these kinds and the common pheasant are also very beautiful of their kind, the half-bred golden being of a strikingly rich auburn, shading into every variety of gold colour; whilst the "penicillings" of the hybrid silver are not equalled by any of the gorgeous plumage we see in bird-skins from foreign climes. I have had opportunities of seeing them constantly for some years, but will add that such an offspring invariably was unproductive, and sought every possible opportunity to evince their pugnacity to all other birds confined with them. Both golden and silver pheasants will endure every severity of our climate. Some years since I sent one egg of the latter, from which birds were hatched and turned loose in a hedge-row; they beat freely the ensuing year, and well stocked the preserve, from which the following some weeks to a covert a mile or more in distance, and driving away the common pheasant, took possession of the whole. Many were purposely shot the next winter, but proved by no means so well-favoured an addition to our dinner-table as their less gaudy brethren. Some golden pheasants' eggs which I forwarded as a present to a friend whose preserves are among the largest in the kingdom, were last season (very early) hatched and turned loose; these bore all the rigours of winter as well as any others, but in the spring began to show a decided aversion to their fellows of more sombre hue. The flesh of the golden is far preferable to that of the silver pheasant. The crest feathers and "the cow" (or neck feathers) are those so universally coveted by our fishermen, and are always saleable at high prices: for this reason a careful amateur will diligently look after these when shot by birds kept in an aviary.

A MARCH AT DAUGHES between Mr. Barrett, of Wakefield, and Mr. Harwood, of Ossett, for £5 a side, is to come off on Monday next at the Queen's Arms Inn, Thoresby, Wakefield.

PENZANCE SWIMMING ASSOCIATION.

The third annual swimming matches of this association came off on Wednesday, the 25th July, in front of the Western Esplanade. There were nine matches, for which there were fifty-one entries. The large wood, all the competitors swam in the sea just opposite the Royal Baths. First Match (open), distance 400 yards; for competitors 20 years of age and under; first prize £2, second prize £1. Burridge (Plymouth), 1; Knuckey (Truro), 2; time, 7 min. Second Match (open), distance 200 yards; sixteen years and under; first prize £1 5s., second prize 10s.—Stevens (Penzance), 1; time, 4 min 10 sec; Corin (Penzance), 2. Third Match (open to all comers), distance 800 yards; first prize £2, second prize £2.—This was the great race of the day, and there were seven entries—Matthews, Mitchell, sen., and James (Penzance), Parker (Exeter), Jeffry and Bottrell (Penzance), and Thomas (Falmouth). The race was very close, but shortly Parker began to draw clear, gradually leaving all the others. Matthews keeping a short distance; Parker kept in front, followed by Jeffry, the others keeping well together. The race continued thus to the finish: Parker 1, 13min; Jeffry 2, 11min. Fourth Match, race with clothes on (open), distance 150 yards; first prize £1, second prize 10s. Johns (Penzance), 1; Mitchell, sen. (Penzance), 2. Fifth Match: Challenge Cup, value £6, with £2 added; second man to receive £1. For amateurs of Penzance and neighbourhood; distance 1,000 yds. There were four entries: Williams, Mitchell, jun., Hodge, and Cogan; but Hodge did not start. From the start it was seen that Mitchell was the strongest swimmer; he kept ahead throughout, and came in first (19½ min.). Cogan, second, and Williams (winner of the cup last year) third; but Cogan was disqualified for keeping on the wrong side of the 400 yds flag, and Williams took second prize.

Sixth Match.—Steeple chase over three boats; distance 300 yds. First prize £2, second £1. Parker (Exeter), 1; Jeffry (Plymouth), 2. Seventh Match.—Flotilla; distance 200 yds. First prize £1, second 10s. Jeffry (Plymouth), 1; Johns (Penzance), 2.

Eighth Match.—Diving. First prize £1, second 10s. Mitchell, sen. (Penzance), 1, 30sec.; Mitchell, jun. (Penzance), 2.

Ninth Match.—Consolation Stakes; distance 200 yds. First prize £1, second 10s. James (Penzance), 1; Urs (Penzance), 2.

Several of the competitors having to leave by train, the prizes were given on board by the President, F. Boase, Esq. At six o'clock there was a dinner at the Queen's Hotel, when the challenge cup was presented to the winner. It was there filled with wine, and passed to the several gentlemen, who drank the health of the winner.

HACKNEY WICK.—The pedestrian was much exhausted at the conclusion of his labours, so much so that he had to be assisted home.

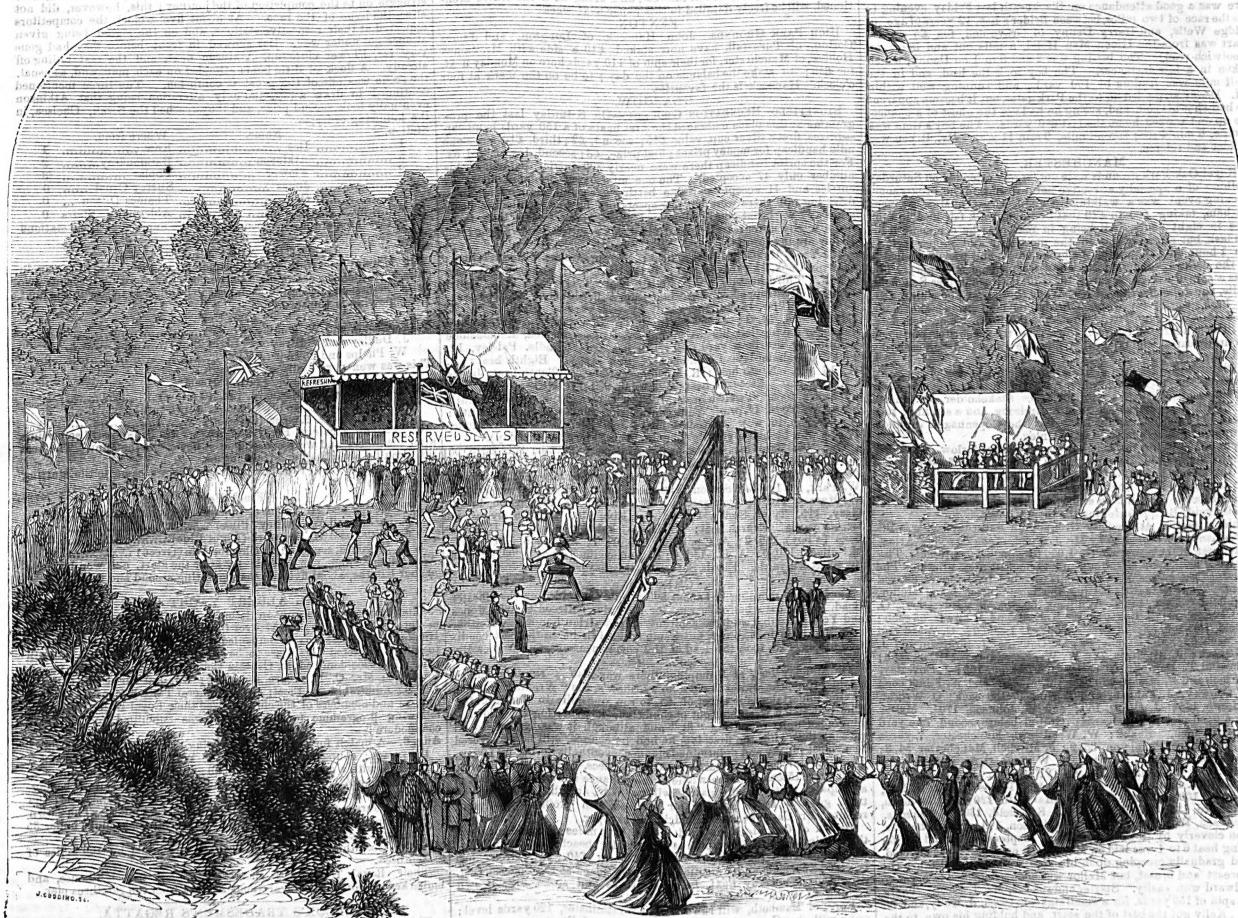

MONDAY.—These grounds received a fair share of patronage this day from the "Bethnal-greens," the fixture being a race between Henry Ray and George Davis, both of that locality, who met, according to articles, to run 410 yards for £50. A short time back Ray defeated Peppitt at these grounds, for £10 a side, in a race of the same distance, and a match was made for Davis (under the name of Watson's) to meet him. The latter is about six and twenty years of age, weighs 247 lbs., and stands 5ft 6in high. He is well-known in the London foot racing field, having run well up in many handicaps, and about three years ago "landed" one of the value of £10, but has never before been matched for a stake of any magnitude. He was trained on this occasion by Kelly, the East-end Black, and looked in very good fettle. Ray is six years younger than his opponent, and is a stout, muscular little fellow, as will be gathered from the fact of his standing but 5ft 2in high, and weighing 9st. His training has been done at the "Wick" under the care of J. Edwards, an old opponent, Mr. W. Price, the handicapper, having been appointed referee and starter, the man soon got ready and toed the mark. Davis won the toss and took the inside position.

eventually won by two feet. Fifth heat: J. Caton, Oakshenworth, 19, w.o. Sixth heat: W. Holhouse, Nottingham, 21, 1; A. Kelley, Wardsley, 22, 2; won by one and a half yard. Seventh heat: T. Chancie, Liverpool, 24, w.o. Eighth heat: J. Hitchin, Manchester, 17, 1; W. Airey, Oldham, 21, 2; Hitchin's last on his legs, and ultimately he was overtaken by Ray and a half yard. Ninth heat: J. Caton, 21, 1; W. Holhouse, 20, 1; W. Moore, Shiffield, 21, 2. The heat caused a great deal of amusement by Airey (who by the bye, looks very good fettle for his next performance) having to wait for the little "Admiral" once or twice on the road; Jem eventually going through the tape two yards in front. The proprietor acted as starter, and Mr. Gaoe, Campling as referee. During the evening the above winners were drawn in three heats, the following men coming together:—D. Richardson, W. Holhouse, and T. Chancie; J. Caton, P. Pilkington, and J. Mace; W. Browne, J. Hitchin, and D. Goodman.

On Monday the final heat found the winner, by one yard, in W. Browne, D. Richardson being second, and J. Caton third.

BIRMINGHAM.

ASTON CROSS.—Young Brown and J. Slater, two Birmingham amateurs, met on Saturday, at these grounds to decide their 100 yards match for £5 a side. The attendance was pretty fair, and betting ran 4 to 3 in favour of Slater. A well-known pedestrian, as referred to, a level start was effected, but after running about 60 yards, Slater took the lead, which he maintained until J. Beckett and Chris. Moore met on Monday to walk their two-mile match for £10 a side. Beckett receiving 30 yards start. The后者 appeared in capital condition, Beckett was attended by the veterans Colman and Moore by Prosser. Mr. G. Hartshorne was chosen referee, whom they had to pass 12 times and a distance of 139 yards to complete the two miles. Betting: 7 to 5 and 6 to 4 on Moore. That race was level to their respective positions in the fourth lap. Moore was within 4 yards of his opponent whom he closely followed till, in the sixth lap he took the lead. In the eighth lap, Beckett passed Moore, who in the twelfth lap again took the lead, whilst Beckett finding

SEPTEMBER.

- 1.—Whithead and Rothwell—100 yards, £25 a side, Whithead having five yards start, City Grounds, Manchester.
- 2.—Mole and Coblet Wood—153 yards, £25 a side, Wood having three yards start, Hyde Park Grounds, Sheffield.
- 3.—London Athletic Club—Open Handicap.

BROMPTON.

On Saturday last these grounds were attended by a very small number of people, the only race of any interest being one of 120 yards between Downing and Shepherd, two novices, for £5 a side. A good start was effected, and Downing won rather easily by 2 yds.

MONDAY.—Though this was the day set for Topley's match against time, he undertook for a bet of £50 to walk eight miles in one hour, the attendance was not by any means numerous, no interest being taken in the match by the general lovers of sport. George Topley has now been about three years prominently before the public, his first match of any account being with Dixon, whom he defeated easily. Wild, at Covent Garden, at Underfall, of Blackfriars, next led to succeed him to his prowess, but for the following twelve months Topley was not heard of. About 18 months ago he walked seven miles and 600 yards in the hour for a bet of £50 a side, and he has, since, defeated Miles, of Brixton, and been beaten by Stockwell in a match of four miles for £100, and by Spooner in a twenty-one miles match for £50; the latter winning with the greatest ease. Topley also completed the great Westhallfeat of walking twenty-one miles in three hours, though the style of going was anything but orthodox. The betting on the present occasion was 6 to 4 on Time, but little money was invested. Mickey Wakefield was an umpire for Topley, Mr. Butler representing the backer of Time, and Mr. Moore being referee and timkeeper. On the general being given Topley dashed off in his usual rapid, lively style, taking short strides and going altogether in a very different manner to that in which he walked the day on which he did the "seven-and-a-half" performance and they were despatched to a very even start, neither having the slight advantage, and for the first ten yards they ran shoulder to shoulder. But now came the front, and took the inside place and coming down the straight for the first time, running by yards, going easy, while Davis was at almost the distance at which his antagonist was taking him. Ray forced the running up the hill, and increased his lead so much that Davis gave up quite pumped out about thirty yards from home, leaving Ray to finish at his leisure. A good bit of money changed hands on the result.

A match has been made between Coker, of Holloway, and Gay, of Bow, to run two miles for £10 a side, at these grounds, on September 8th, the match to be left open for £15 a side.

Young Oddy and Meadows are matched to walk here one mile for £5 on August 27.

LIVERPOOL.

STRAWBERRY HOTEL GROUNDS' ALL-ENGLAND HANDICAP, distance 150 yards; first prize, £20; second, £23; third, £2; given by Jim Mass, proprietor.

In consequence of the bad weather, the unforunately to out-door sports on Saturday the attendance at this enclosure was not, nearly so numerous as was anticipated to witness the preliminary heats of this handicap. Out of the sixty-four entries, twenty-six accepted, only five of whom were Liverpool men, the rest coming from various parts of the country. The heats were run as follows:—First heat: D. Goodman, Liverpool, 23 yards, 1; D. Thompson, Dewsbury, 18½, 2; Goodman maintained the lead, and won a hard race by half a yard. Second heat: W. Browne, Manchester, 1, 1; B. Quale, Liverpool, 20, 2; Wild, Salford, 21, 3; Browne, who got off the good start, won very easily by four yards, Quale beating Wild by one yard. Third heat: D. Richardson, 20, 1; Mr. Hawkes, Liverpool, 23, 2; Richardson won very easily by 10 yards. Fourth heat: P. Pilkington, Salford, 20, 1; J. Nuttal, Manchester, 14, 2; F. Traas, Liverpool, 21, 3. Nuttal obtained fully four yards at the start, and at half-way he was at Pilkington's side; the remainder of the distance they ran shoulder to shoulder; Pilkington victory hopeless, retired from the contest. Moore did the distance in 16 minutes, 50 seconds.

Young Abraham and J. Clarke then appeared for their 300 yards sprint for £30 a side. J. Simons took care of Abrahams, and C. Kimberley of Clarke. On peeling at the score the contrast between the competitors was remarkable, for whilst Clarke was tall and thin, Abrahams was fleshy and muscular. Mr. J. Goates was the appointed referee. The spectators were very numerous, and large amounts were invested beginning at 3 to 2 and ending at 4 to 1 on Clarke. After several attempts the start was effected slightly in favour of Abrahams, who immediately took the lead, and after a splendid race ran in winner by half a yard.

The 300 yards match between Howells, of Oldbury, and Simms, of Birmingham, for £10 a side, which was appointed for Monday, did not take place, Simms having forfeited his deposit.

The three-mile match for £10 a side, between Sherwood, of Worcester, and Gurley, of Birmingham, which was appointed for Monday, was deferred from Gurley, forfeiting.

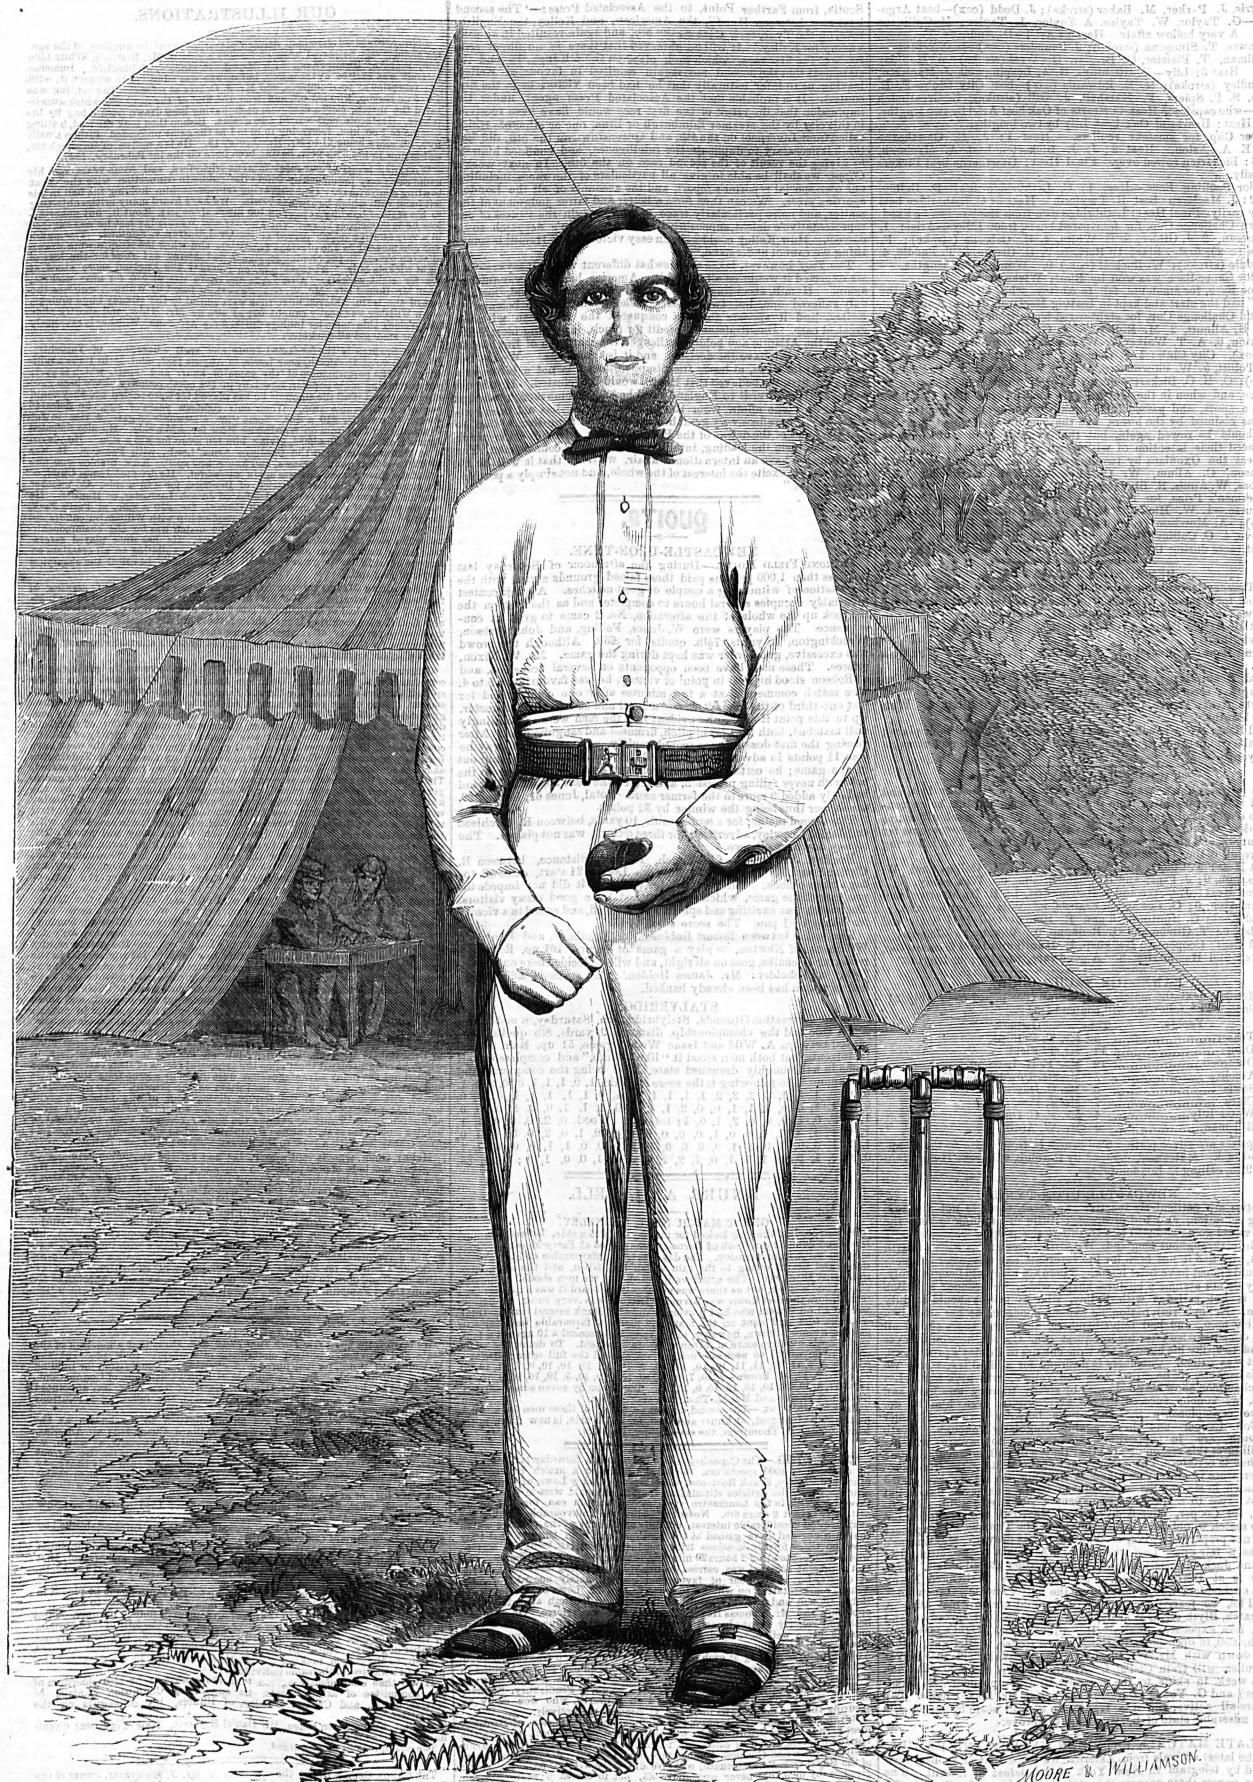

Harry Keel's All-England 280 Yards Handicap for three silver cups will be run at these grounds on Monday and Tuesday next, August 6 and 7.

Dudley, of Stourbridge, and Wilcox, of Hill Top, are matched to run 100 yards, for £10 a side, Wilcox receiving two yards start, on Monday, August 13, at these grounds. Mr. Hawkins, of Wednesday, referee.

C. Mills, of Aston, and H. Gurley, of Birmingham, are matched to run a mile, for £10 a side, Gurley having 10 yards, to take place above on Monday, August 20.

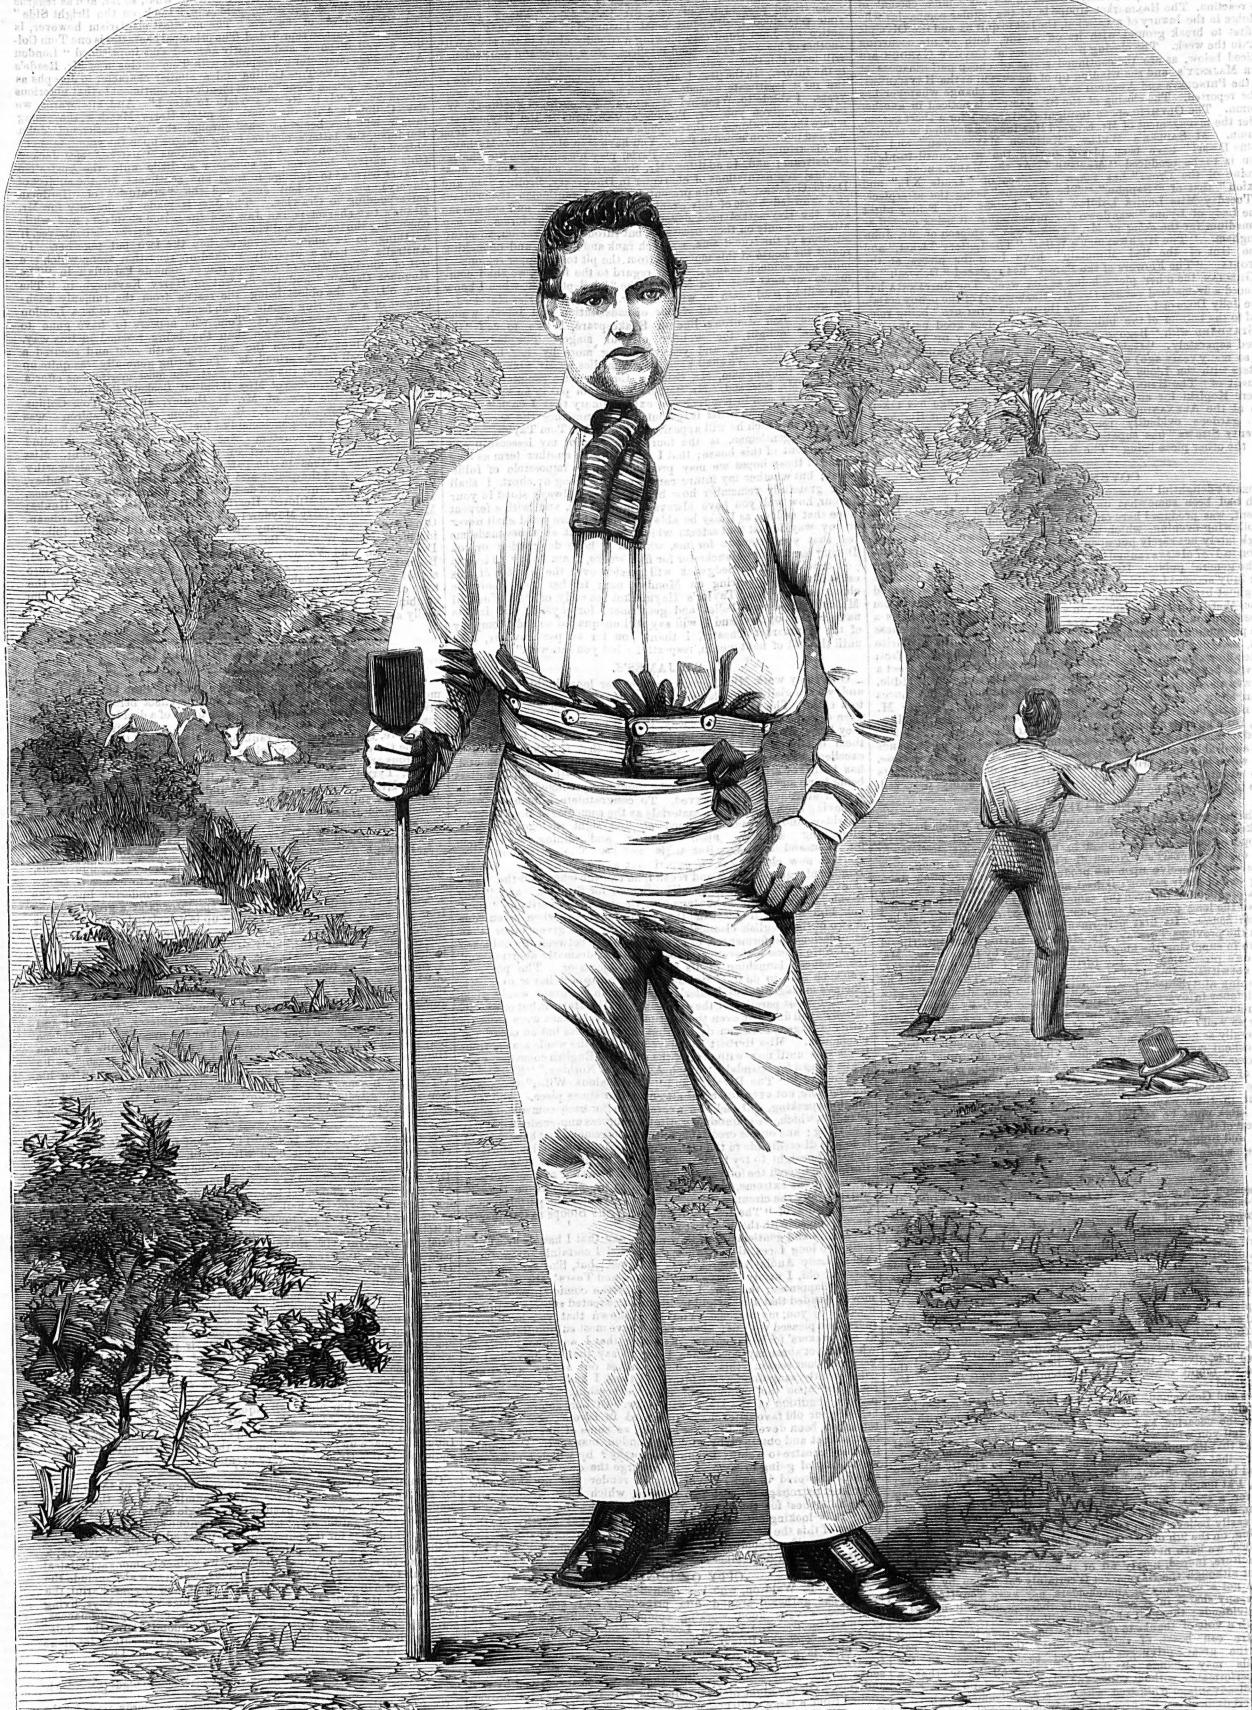

The veteran C. Hill will run Astins, of Oldbury, 100 yards and give him two yards start, for £10 a side, or Richard, who runs easily, for the same amount. Money at Owen's, Travellers' Rest, Aston-road, Birmingham.

Chris. Moore will run H. Smalley from 2 to 7 miles, for 25 or £10 a side. Money at Mr. Tucke's, Brawny Tavern, Schofield-street, Birmingham.

SUMMARY.

This week the utmost efforts of the season observing managers in the shape of theatre closing may be said to have reached their culminating point; and we look, too, may be with some apprehension at the reaction. The Haymarket troupe is, of the regular companies who indulge in the luxury of closing the last to quiet and sedate people, the first to break ground with its off season, both events occurring within the week. The closing performances at COVENT GARDEN are noticed below, as are the continued series of cheap performances at HER MAJESTY'S, and the winding up of the season at the HAYMARKET. At the PRINCESS'S and ADELPHI and STRAND no change whatever has to be reported. The closing of the ST. JAMES'S is noticed in another column. The OLYMPIC seems to-night (Saturday), for a short season, under the management of Mr. Edward Hastings, as detailed in another column. At SADLER'S WELLS "Kathleen Mavourneen" and the "Blue Devil" have been played during the week until to-night, which is to be produced with strength. At the MARBLEBONE "The Heroine of the Cross" has taken the place of "Love XI," and "Ixion" that of "Sappho," "The Orpheus" being the afterpiece. On Tuesday Miss Louisa Laidlaw took a benefit. On Friday night "The Lady of Lyons" was down for presentation, it being chosen as the medium for the debut of Mr. Frank Bettie, a stepson of John Brougham. "The Highwayman's Wife," "The Lottery Ticket," and "The Hut of the Red Mountain" have been the pieces at the VICTORIA. "The Flowers of the Forest" has replaced "Deborah" at the GRECIAN, the other pieces being as last week. The BRITANNIA has produced a dramatised version by Mr. Hazlewood of the penny serial, "The Jolly Dogs of London" "The Dustman's Treasure" being relegated to the bottom of the bill. Macbeth still does good business at the STANDARD with "Begone Dull Care." The CITY of LONDON is noticed separately. "Galer the Troubadour" (as PUNCH called Elliott) even two years ago) and Miss Fanny Reeves have taken up their entertainments at THE LONDON at the PAVILION. They give their entertainments of "The Merchant of Venice" and have the lion performances of Herr Kopfki for an interlude. Notable scene change has taken place at the ALEXANDRA, the attractions of the adjoint Highbury Barr garden evidently rendering change as yet unnecessary. "Twenty Straus" has superseded "The Detective" at THE ERINGHAM, the other piece being "The Masked Man," as last week.

COVENT GARDEN.

Mozart's delightful "Nozze di Figaro" the promised production of which had been somewhat unaccountably deferred to the very latest moment, was produced here on Friday week, and played, besides, on the following evening, which was the last of the season. This opera, though late but rarely put upon the stage, has from its first production in 1787 always ranked high in the esteem both of the connoisseurs and the general public. Its highly entertaining story and brilliant music fully account for this. The production under notice was marked throughout by great energy. A slight disappointment accrued from the fact that Signor Serafini, in which Mr. Gye had promised us a new transcription by Mr. Milne, did not, in consequence of the lateness of the production of the opera, and the desire of the manager to do so, assign to another, to Madme. Lehmann-Sharrington in fact; but the admirable style in which the latter acquitted herself went long way towards compensating for this disappointment. Mlle. Attié was an admirable Countess; and the Cherubino of Mlle. Lincke was an effort second to none in point of excellence. Neither M. Faure nor Signor Graziani are particularly well suited in Figaro and the Count, from an historic point of view; their rendering of the music allotted to them, however, was satisfactory. The second performance of this admirable opera, as we said, brought the season to a close. There was a large and brilliant audience, and one of the special events of the evening was a thoroughly hearty, as thoroughly deserved, tribute to Mr. Costa, the conductor.

HER MAJESTY'S.

With that wonderful though infrequent unanimity which has been remarkable of the artistic of the managerial mind collectively, both open-houses, having chosen to neglect that most charming of comic operas, Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro," for so long, now simultaneously resolve upon its production. Both, too, pitch upon the fat end of their season; indeed, so unanimous are they that they show a prediction for even the same days. On Saturday last we not only had the long promised and much neglected "Figaro," but had it of both houses. Its first performance, however, at Her Majesty's, was on the previous Tuesday, Mr. Mapleson having thus unscrupulously Mr. Gye in supplying the long looked for revival by three days. Mr. Mapleson's production has the further merit of being brought forward, notwithstanding that the season is closed. The fact that he was playing at "reduced prices" did not deter him. His tender of a rare efficiency in every respect had been cordially responded to by the reduced price people, who should he not regard them with no displeasure? What, indeed, is the reason? The paying many are generally as good customers as the paying few, and sometimes better. The excellent company of this house yielded an admirable cast for "Le Nozze." Mdlle. Tittoni's Countess was as complete a performance as any of the many we have had at her hands. The Cherubino of Madame Trebbi, and the Susanna of Mlle. Sunico were equally excellent in their way. Signor Gassier was a satisfactory Figaro, and the same must be said of the Count of Mr. Sutley, and, indeed, of the rest of the cast—viz., Signor Bettini as Basilio, Signor Bossi as Bartolo, and Signor Casaboni as the Gardener. Encores were frequent, and the whole performance was received with demonstrations of delight.

HAYMARKET.

The season here closed on Wednesday night with, as usual, the season's benefit. "The Favourite of Fortune," the great and distinguishing success of the season, was to have been reproduced; but owing to the unfortunate illness of Mr. Sothern, "She Stoops to Conquer" was substituted. Mr. Buckley, playing the rôle of Tony Lumpkin. Other features of the performance were the facility of singing by Mears, Sims Rivers and Weiss, and Mme. Weiss' "Founded on Facts," "Three Weeks after Marriage," and, last not least, "the beneficiaire's annual address." This was received with great applause, as was, we need scarcely add, the veteran actor himself; and as it reviews the past season so amply and well, fully and fairly setting forth its distinguishing and highly satisfactory features, and as, moreover, is interesting as regards prospective events, we heartily wish to give it in full and in lieu of such summary as the season as we might otherwise have attempted. This is what Mr. Buckstone said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—When I concluded to end the season here this evening, it occurred to me that I would not trouble you with an address on the occasion, as I could but remind you of what had been done, and tell you what we intend to do; but this idea was only met by remarks that its omission would cause disappointment—that it was looked for—that some might construe its absence to signify that the season had been unprofitable, with other observations of like nature; therefore, I at length determined to say a few words before making my bow for a short time. I am happy to inform you, ladies and gentlemen, that the season has been a most prosperous one, and which you may easily believe when I compare it, upon my honour, that from our opening, on the 9th of last October, 1865, to this evening August the 18th, we have never known one week's receipts to be under the expenditure, indeed, nearly all of them have given a very large profit; but although the Haymarket is certainly carried on by a company, it is not a company of shareholders, nor have you, ladies and gentlemen, any shares in it, consequently these profits will not give you any dividends; though I know you will all resolve to adopt my report, with a vote of thanks to the chair—that is, myself. How long any theatre can boast of such prosperity the future only can decide; the great privileges proposed to be given to the music halls may change all this, for we well know that a dramatic performance without edible and fluid must stand at a considerable disadvantage compared with those establishments where a similar entertainment can be enjoyed with tobacco, alcohol, and deviled kidneys. Still, ladies and gentlemen, we will not despair; we will continue to present the drama, pure and simple, without such aids to affection;" then, should we fail, we must see whether the ladies visiting the boxes of the Haymarket will object to a mild cigar during the performance and ascertain if the pit and galleries will set their faces against bitter beer, or something stronger, but should this dramatic millennium ever arrive, the company of this theatre only hope that the audience will haul them something to drink on the stage during their arduous exertions—then we may possibly see Sir Pete Teesle, after his soliloquy beginning "When an old bachelor marries a young wife," accept at the end of it a tumbler of liquid from some friend near him, and hear Sir Peter say, "Thank you, sir, your very good health—just what I wanted;" or we may live to notice my Lord Dundreary blowing a friendly cloud in the stalls with another of his own order and intellect. Now, ladies and gentlemen, I will leave this to you, reflect upon past, and consider the present, go on in the same fashion. In this, I am proud to say, we produced one of the most legitimate comedies which has been represented for many years. I allude to Westland Marion's "Favourites of Fortune." We have also given you Mr. Planché's "Orpheus in the Haymarket," where the smoothness of the couplets was only surpassed by the refined wit and polish contained in them. You have seen Mr. Charles Mathews, in his triumphant return from Paris, play his admirable Sir Charles Oldstraw; and, in addition, Mr. Mrs. Bas shows you his most original representations of character in Dundreary, Brother Sam, and David Garrick. As to the present, ladies and gentlemen, the brilliant and crowded house of this evening speaks for itself, and assures me that the Haymarket need never despair while its performances can attract, not only on these occasions, but throughout a season, so many admirers of the drama, so much ratiocination, and on looking round the house, in this modern theatre, to the upper regions—I must add, with much grace.

With regard to the future, we shall commence our next season on Monday the 21st September, and I hope you will be glad again to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mathews, the gentleman still in full vigour of constitution and talent, whom to quote Ben Jonson's line on Shakespeare, I like to call "the apple of beauty, the wonder of our stage." The lady, with her many admirers, and yearly gaining more by her heartiness and good looks. We shall have new comedies by Mr. Oxforden, Mr. Leicester Buckingham, Mrs. Stirling Coyne, and a peculiar extravaganza by Mr. Burnand. Mr. Forster will again put in an appearance at Christmas, and in a novelty so extraordinary that I do not feel it prudent to tell you what it is—but I may announce the acceptance of a play, in which will appear, written by Mr. Tom Taylor. This, ladies and gentlemen, is the fourteenth year of my leaseship and management of this house, and that I shall survive another term as long as one of those hopes we may, prudently suppose, be impossible of fulfilment. I trust that my future career may be of short duration, and will ever gratefully remember how highly I have always stood in your favour, how well you have always patronised me, and with a fervent hope that as long as I may be able to appear before you I shall never in any way forfeit that esteem which you have at all times made me feel that you entertain for me, whether I have deserved it or not. During our visit to Manchester for five weeks, I am happy to inform you that Miss Amy Sedgwick will preside over the fortunes of this establishment appearing on Monday next in her own admirable character in Tom Taylor's Haymarket comedy of "An Unequal Match." And now, ladies and gentlemen, for myself, and in the name of the popular, and I will say still unequalled comedy company of the Haymarket Theatre, I thank you for all past favours, and, until the end of next month, respectively bid you farewell."

ST. JAMES'S.

On Friday week Miss Herbert brought her long, highly interesting, and, we are glad to be able to add, exceptionally remunerative season to a close. The various features of this season, which has in the main been devoted to legitimate comedy, have been duly noticed by us as they have one after the other developed themselves, and in reviewing them it affords us much pleasure to find that so much that was excellent, but, at the same time, as must be confessed, experimental, has been rewarded. The result of which we—the wishables of this establishment, appearing on Monday next in her own admirable character in Tom Taylor's Haymarket comedy of "An Unequal Match." And now, ladies and gentlemen, for myself, and in the name of the popular, and I will say still unequalled comedy company of the Haymarket Theatre, I thank you for all past favours, and, until the end of next month, respectively bid you farewell."

CRICKET.

TO SECRETARIES OF CLUBS.

We shall be glad to receive any notices of matches to come off, which, when played, shall have every attention at our hands, if an account, and other particulars, as brief as possible, consistently with their importance, be forwarded to us as early as possible.

I ZINGARI v. GENTLEMEN OF NORFOLK.

This match, played at Gunton Park, the picturesque seat of Lord Suffield, was concluded on Saturday, and was won easily by Norfolk. Score:—

THE GENERAL LAND DRAINAGE AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.—Offices, 22 Whitehall, S.W.

J. Bailey Denton, Principal Engineer.

Under this Company's Act tenants for life, trustees, mortgagors, guardians, committees of incompetent persons, beneficent Societies, corporations (etc.) and individuals, may obtain from the Company, what they may require, the following land improvements, and charge the outlay and expenses on the estate improved by way of rentcharge, to be paid by half-yearly instalments, viz. :

All works of drainage, irrigation, warping, and embankments.

The erection of farmhouses, cottages for agricultural labourers, and all kinds of farm buildings.

The construction of roads.

A general clearing of old woodlands, enclosing, fencing, and reclaiming land.

The owners of estates not enclosed, who may be desirous to add to the expense or inconvenience of a legal mortgage, may also charge their estates with an outlay on improvement, which shall be repaid by the simple and inexpensive process of the Company's Act.

The term of years for the rentcharge is fixed by the landowner, so as to cover the amount of annual payment to the company, and the time of payment.

No investigation of title being required, and the charge not being affected by incumbrances, no legal expenses are incurred.

The arrangements for effecting improvements are threefold.

No. 1. The works may be designed and executed entirely by the landowner's agent, and the Company employed only to supply the loan and conduct the master through all the ordinary and usual channels of business.

No. 2. The Company will supply plans, specifications, and estimates for any improvements to be executed by the landowner's agents under No. 1. In each of these cases the landowner will be solely under the control of the Company's officers.

No. 3. The Company will undertake the entire responsibility of the improvements, prepare the plans, execute the works, and finally charge on the estate the actual amount expended, with their compensation thereon, approved by the Company's Committee.

Landowners may thus obtain what assistance they require from the Company, and no more, in effecting the objects in view. Drainage and other improvements are also executed on commission for landowners, who merely require the skill and experience of the Company's officers and a staff in constant practice.

Applications to be addressed to WILLIAM CLIFFORD, the secretary, at the office of the Company, 22, Whitehall, London, S.W.

THE SPORTSMAN AND NATURALIST in Canada; or, Notes on the Natural History of the Game Birds and Fishes of that country.

By M. W. ROSS KING, F.R.G.S., &c.

"This splendid volume contains the model of what the work of its author ought to be. It is an important addition to natural history, and a work the interesting traveller will consult once again. Since the works of Elliot Warburton have been published, we have had of them works with which we are acquainted but have written in a style too clear and forcible and picturesque."—Sunday Times.
